Folk Band of the Year 2007!

Yes! We did it! Last night, Old Blind Dogs won the coveted title of Folk Band of the Year 2007 at the Scots Trad Music Awards. A special thank you from the band to all of you who voted for us!

As Old Blind Dogs performed to a packed Farr Hall in Inverness-shire, the 2007 Scots Trad Music Awards were in full flight in Fort William. And it was during the interval of their concert that word reached the boys that they had picked up the 'Band of the Year' award. Fiddler Aidan O'Rourke, from Scots groups Blazin' Fiddles and Lau, collected the award on behalf of the boys and a great night was had by all, both in Fort William AND Farr.

The band would like to extend a huge THANK YOU to everyone who voted and has supported the band over the years!
